Dear Praying Friends,

Thank you to those who prayed for rain! The weather this summer has been phenomenal. We have had regular rainfall, which is such a blessing, as the last two years have been extremely dry. It is so green and beautiful here now. We, individually and as a church, have taken advantage of this season and have engaged in numerous outdoor activities. This has been edifying for all and is always a good opportunity for outreach.

This summer has been a bit different for our church this year. Although it is a busy time for everyone, several of our families have traveled, and a couple of them have even made temporary moves to other locations. One family is considering a permanent move, but we believe this would be detrimental to their spiritual growth. Please pray they will make a wise decision. Lower church attendance has required us to make some adjustments, but it has given an opportunity for others to fill the gaps in the service positions. I have also been taking one day each week to train some of the young men to help more in the music ministry.

Over the past couple of months, we have had the privilege of seeing some local visitors come as well as a few from farther away. It is always encouraging to be remembered and to fellowship. I have remained in contact with some of the local visitors up to this point. One family had some questions that needed to be answered, and I am praying God uses the preaching and conversations we have had to help them.

At times, God's work can be discouraging. Fruit is not always evident, and one wonders how to explain the gospel better so that decisions will be made. This is the case in dealing with children and adults alike. Our Sunday School teachers have been diligent in teaching the children—at times with seemingly little impact—but we rejoice to report that over a period of a few months, five of our church kids from four different families have accepted Jesus! We praise God that our youngest daughter, Abigail, was among them! Everyone was so excited. One boy who accepted Christ has had a serious anger problem, but a short time following his salvation, his father testified of how his attitude has already changed.

We would like to ask prayer for one of our church ladies who is nearing the end of her pregnancy. She has had some minor complications and a lot of pain. Please pray for the birth and for ongoing health. There are two others in church suffering from sickness as well, and prayer for them would also be appreciated.

Thank you so much for your continuous show of love and support. We as a family are well. May God bless you richly for your service to Him.

In Christ,

Will Klassen
