April-May 2026

Dear Praying Friends,

Thank you for praying for the events mentioned in our last letter. All three events were well attended, and there was a good spirit all around. Mother's Day is always a special time for the daughters to hear a devotional and celebrate along with their mothers. Our weather on Children's Day was true to tradition. It was windy all day, but we had fun outside anyway. We had hot dogs and ice cream for the kids, and I took some time to play croquet with the little ones. They also tired themselves out on inflatable bouncers and had a great time. It was good to see nearly all our men and boys come out for the Father's Day event. We have summer weather here, and we were able to enjoy a beautiful evening of fellowship.

Other outreach into the community has seen a few souls saved, and one family has attended a few times in response to an invitation. It is good to see some of our young people going out and seeking to win souls also. Many times, I hear that our people are having good conversations with others they associate with during the week. I recently had a good talk with a mechanic who fixed my van. It turns out that he believes the gospel and is not really in agreement with the teaching in his church. He is not ready to visit us, but was willing to do additional studying. I provided him with some resources and will follow up. It seems that as time goes on, more people are opening up to Biblical discussion.

Thanks for praying for our children. Our oldest son, Joseph, will be attending Bible college in Canada for one semester. As he seeks direction for his future, he will focus on gaining more Bible knowledge and will work a temporary job. Please pray that God gives him clear direction for his life.

Some time ago, our family started a small ice cream business. The main purpose is to provide employment for our children. This is going fairly well, and our two middle daughters are able to earn better wages than working elsewhere. My wife is already busy and doesn't need more work; however, this is a good opportunity for us. She is able to mostly do the managing and organizing, and the girls do the hands-on work.

Our family camp begins on the 29th of June. Prayers would be appreciated for lasting decisions to be made. It is always a great time for all; however, the devil tries his best to cause division and trouble.

Our family is all well. It seems that change is continually occurring with the kids in this stage. We would greatly appreciate prayers for wisdom for both our people and us.

In Christ,

Will Klassen
