PROCLAIM 2026: Reaching Africa with the Gospel

Each August, more than 400 pastors, church leaders, and others involved in ministry gather at our church in Nairobi for the Proclaim Conference. This year, about 100 women were among those attending. The conference was especially encouraging as it focused on a question that is close to our hearts: How can African churches take the gospel throughout Africa and beyond?

Throughout the week, African pastors and ministry leaders from Egypt, Nigeria, Malawi, South Africa, Uganda, and Kenya preached, taught, and challenged churches to think seriously about their role in fulfilling the Great Commission. It was exciting to hear these conversations led by African church leaders who understand both the tremendous gospel needs of this continent and the opportunities God has given His churches here.

This year also marked the first time Proclaim offered a workshop specifically for women. Tammy was honored to teach “What Is in Your Hands? Women, Faithfulness, and the Advance of the Gospel.” Through a biographical look at Priscilla, Tammy traced how God used an ordinary woman—her marriage, home, work, relationships, and knowledge of His Word—to serve alongside others in the advance of the gospel.

We left Proclaim thankful for what God is doing through His churches in Africa and encouraged by the desire we saw to take the gospel where Christ is not yet known. Please pray that the vision and conversations begun during this week will result in churches raising up, equipping, and sending faithful gospel workers throughout Africa and around the world.
